Monumental Brasses in the City of London.

THESE are still remaining in the various churches in the City of London some forty-one monumental brasses, and it seems desirable that a list of them should be given here, arranged under the various churches in which they are to be found. It may be noted that all the brasses are on the floor unless stated otherwise.

ALL HALLOWS, BARKING.

DATE.

- 1437 (1) John Bacon and wife. Heart with scroll over figure, and foot inscription. North aisle.
- 1477 (2) John Croke and wife, sons and daughters, and one scroll and one shield. A scroll, shield and marginal inscription lost. North aisle on altar-tomb.
- 1498 (3) John Rusche, and foot inscription. South aisle.
- 1518 (4) Christopher Rawson, two wives, foot inscription, and four scrolls. South aisle.
- 1535 (5) Andrew Evingar (Flemish). Incised inscription round brass; one side destroyed. Nave.
- 1546 (6) William Thinne and wife. Marginal and foot inscriptions, and part of wife's effigy restored; one symbol lost. South aisle.
- 1560 (7) William Armore. Quadrate plate. On pier in south aisle.
